DISCREDITS RUMOR

REPORT FROM CRESTON OF CONTEMPLATED RAILROAD CHANGE

WOULD MEAN MORE TRAINS

Burlington Agent Had Heard Nothing of Proposed Re-Routing and Gave It Little Credence.

It is rumored in railroad circles at Creston that all of the dressed meat traffic between St. Joseph and Chicago, which for eight or ten years has gone by way of Chariton and Hannibal, will again be brought over the Creston and St. Joseph branch, says the Creston Advertiser-Gazette.

If this change is made, and it seems almost certain that it will be, it will more than double the present volume of business on the Creston and St. Joseph branch, and as a consequence, will necessitate additional crews on that branch, and will greatly increase the business of almost every department of the railroad.

If the change takes place it is expected to follow closely the trip of the officials that was made Monday over the St. Joseph branch for the purpose of inspecting the bridges. While this is the semi-annual bridge inspection tour, it is believed that the special purpose is to pass upon the bridges between Creston and St. Joseph incident to making the change in the transportation of the enormous amount of dressed meat that goes out of St. Joseph each week. In all probability if it is again brought around by way of Creston, there will not be another change in a good many years.

W. E. Goforth, the local Burlington agent, when told by a Democrat-Forum representative of the rumor of the proposed change in the meat traffic, said that he had not heard a word in regard to it and didn't know whether the change would be made. If the dressed meat traffic is sent over this branch it will mean more trains.

The officials were in Maryville Monday afternoon, having come from Creston in a special car. The object of the inspection trip over the line is to inspect the bridges.

WHI FILED IN PROBATE COURT.

The will of Sam Selby, who died recently, was filed in probate court Tuesday. It was written on March 5, 1909, and was witnessed by J. F. Montgomery and William H. McComsey. To the grandchildren, Calvin, William and Clarence Clouse, one-seventh of the property, less $80, is given. Then the following children are given one-seventh part of the estate, less $300: U. Selby, John Selby, Ted Selby, Floyd Selby and Grace Selby and David Selby. George P. Shoptaugh of Elmo was named as executor of the estate.

WILL LEAVE THURSDAY.

Mrs. J. Wesley Jones of Loveland, Col., who has been the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. F. "TRADE DOLLAR" WOULDN'T GO.
Two Young Ladies From Rosendale Found Themselves Stranded on 1878 Currency.

Two young ladies from Rosendale, who were doing their Christmas shopping in Maryville Monday, spent all they had but the amount that would take them home. When they went to buy their tickets a few minutes before train time Agent Goforth told them he could not take the dollar they presented. They had not noticed it was different from any other silver dollar, and had no idea where they had secured it. Their predicament soon became known, and everybody in the depot was examining the piece of money. A traveling man offered them a dollar bill for the money, which they accepted gladly, and he expects to get a good sum in return for the rare piece of money.

The trade dollar is a silver coin issued in 1873-1874 for use in China in competition with Spanish and Mexican dollars. It was not intended for circulation in the United States, though it was made a legal tender to the amount of five dollars at the time of its issue; this provision was repealed in 1876. Its actual value was less than that of the standard dollar.

P. Childress, who is a brother of Mrs. Dempsey and Mrs. Braine, left Tuesday night for Washington, D. C., to visit Mrs. Dempsey's daughter before returning to their home at Fredericksburg. his life's work in a most able and charming manner, illustrating her talk with some of his famous pictures, including those of his wife and mother, "The Anatomy Lesson," "The Syndics," or "The Cloth Merchants." And especially did she bring out his wonderful work of light and shadow in "The Night Watch."

Mrs. George P. Bellows gave a very helpful Dutch word drill on the lesson.

RICH SOIL AND ITS NEEDS.

Northern Missouri is one of the richest sections of the United States. The soil fertility is very deep, says Profitable farming, and the soil is of a friable, fine texture, ideal for plant root development, for absorption of moisture, and therefore for the maximum production of farm crops. Practically every known crop of the temperate zone does well in this soil, and a total crop failure has never been known. But soil of great wealth is also ideal for the development of weeds, and is naturally susceptible to washing. Therefore, it brings added need of attention to the weeds, and to the prevention of washing away of the fertility. It not infrequently happens that the richest sections of the country receive the poorest husbandry. Agricultural success is too easy, the struggle for existence is not severe. Northern Missouri needs greater improvement in farm buildings, and farm equipment, and closer attention to soil conservation, and to intensive cultivation.

It is a wonderful country, but there is danger of our being tempted into careless ways because of the ease with which fairly successful crops can be coaxed from Northern Missouri soil, and these careless ways may lead us to want at some time. No soil is so rich that it will not ultimately wear out if its fertility is minded persistently. No soil is so deep but that the fields can be ruined by continuous washing away of the top soil, and the cutting of great gullies.

MODERN PROGRESS.

Science, Entering Into the Every-Day Life of the Farm, Increases Productivity.

I recently observed a very striking illustration of progress; an old gentleman of 94 years standing beside his new automobile with one hand resting proudly on his car, while in his other hand he held an old ox yoke. Doubtless this same ox yoke had served well in his younger days.

We see all around us this spirit of progress. Out on the Pacific coast a single acre produced in one year a crop of strawberries which sold for $1,500; and our soil is producing in fruit and truck, yearly crops selling at thousands of dollars per acre. Farm crops are selling at prices that exceed $100 per acre each year, and we see literally not "two" but "many" blades of grass now growing where one grew before. According to the United States census bureau, the lands of our country have more than doubled in value in the last decade. And, an example of the development of live stock is seen in the Holstein-Friesian cow, Colantha 4th's Johanna, who produced 27,432 pounds of milk and 1,164 pounds of butter in one year. But with all this increased production, the greatest problem before this nation is to feed her people. And the producer of food stuffs is the most prosperous and independent of all classes. As a producer of food, the American hen ranks first. Nothing can take the place of the egg or the meat of the barnyard fowl. She produces a billion dollar crop yearly. Neither have we been behind in making progress with our feathered friends. The hen is becoming common that produces 200, 240, and even 250 eggs per year. Sixty hens on a city lot 40 feet square have produced $1,500 in ten months. An egg farm in the New Jersey pine belt is producing 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 eggs per year. A flock of nearly 2,000 chickens in a Western state netted more than $11 per head in twelve months' time. Such instances show the high spots. But the average American hen, instead of producing 150 to 200 eggs per year, averages only 63 eggs in the year. And the poultry packer tells us that instead of the hen weighing 7 or 9 pounds it is the exception to find them going to market larger than 4 or 5 pounds. If right methods will produce the $1,500 acre of strawberries, and the 27,432 pounds of milk from one cow, right methods and right breeding will also produce the 200-egg hen and the 9-pound hen. And if this could be accomplished next year, Uncle Sam's poultry crop, instead of being a billion dollar crop, would exceed two billions, a neat sum, to place in the pockets of the poultry people.

The thing that makes most for progress in the development of all our domestic animals is right breeding and strong ancestry. Breeders of poultry are realizing this fact and many of the foremost are now pedigree-bred—knowing the sire and dam of each fowl produced, just as do the breeders of horses, sheep, cattle and all other stock. This method is carried out by the use of trap nests in the breeding yards which identifies the eggs laid by each hen—each hen's eggs kept separate from all other eggs when hatching—and each hen's chicks given a distinct foot mark by which they are identified when grown. Only one male bird must be kept in each breeding yard. Each breeding bird is known by name and number (on egg brand) and the individual ancestry is thus recorded for each succeeding generation.

On the farm of the writer the extra cost of pedigree-breding is about 10 cents per head for each chick produced. This extra cost is as nothing compared with results. More real progress can be made in building up the size, vigor and the fancy as well as the utility qualities, in five years of intelligent, systematic, pedigree-breding than in twenty years of the going-it-blind, promiscuous breeding.

It pays the man who produces and sells stock for breeding purposes, and it also pays the man who needs new blood in his flock, to secure pedigree birds. In our exhibit of pedigree White Plymouth Rocks at the Missouri state fair, October, 1910, our first, second and third prize pullets were full sisters, granddaughters of Queen of Illinois, first prize pullets at the Illinois state fair, 1907. The sire of these three pullets was out of a 240-egg hen, and a full brother to Springfield Chief, first prize cock at Illinois state fair, 1907. I mention this and could mention more instances, as practical examples of the value of pedigree-breding. It pays to know what is back of the bird from which you breed.—J. A. Bickerdike in Missouri Ruralist.

MRS. B. F. COX DEAD.

Passed Away Suddenly at 10 o'Clock Wednesday Morning at Her Home, Northeast of Maryville.

Mrs. Benoni F. Cox, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Davis, formerly of this city, died suddenly at her home, eight miles northeast of Maryville, at about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Cox had been very ill but was getting better and was thought to be out of danger. She leaves a 2-weeks-old daughter, Ethel Ellen, and two other children, Wilbur and Hazel, and her husband. Mrs. Cox had had a siege of typhoid fever, but was recovering under the care of a trained nurse. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Davis of Liberty, Mo., were with her all through her illness, and on Wednesday morning they left for a few days' stay with Maryville relatives.

When they reached Maryville the news of their daughter's death was waiting for them.

Mrs. Cox's death was a great shock to her family, and they have the sympathy of all in their sorrow. She is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Davis of South Fillmore street and of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson Craven of this city.

TIGERS WON PENNANT

By Beating Dwarfs in Tuesday's Basketball Game.

Final Standing of Teams.

	P.	W.	L.	Pct.
Tigers	16	11	5	.687
Athletics	16	10	6	.625
Dodgers	16	9	7	.562
Dwarfs	16	5	11	.312
Giants	16	5	11	.312

It's all over but the shouting. Captain Mitchell and his Tigers are the winners of the Normal basket ball tournament, which closed last night. In the final game, in which the Tigers had to beat the Dwarfs to win the pennant, the Bengals played the strongest game they have ever put up. Through the good work of Daise, the Dwarfs' forward, the first half ended with the Tigers at the short end of a 10 to 7 score. But the second period was entirely a different story, for the Tigers, led by Mitchell's spectacular goal throwing, piled up a total of 21 points, while the Dwarfs were held to two points in the last half. The final score was 21 to 12.

The playing of Captain Mitchell was the prettiest work that has been seen in a tournament game. He was guarded by McClintock, who is without doubt the best guard in the school, and the Tiger leader got six field goals, which is nothing short of a miracle, considering his guard. The line-up:

Tigers—Carpenter and Mitchell, forwards; Nixon, Center, Holmes and R. Miller, guards.

Dwarfs—Daise and Dunshee, forwards; Breit, center; McClintock and F. Miller, guards.

Summary—Field goals—Daise 3, Breit 1, McClintock 1, Carpenter 2, Mitchell 6, Nixon 1.

Free throws Daise 2, Carpenter 3.

Couch V. L. Moore deserves a great deal of credit for the manner in which he has conducted the tournament, which has been a success from every viewpoint.

The players have conducted themselves as true sportsmen, and they no doubt will derive a great deal of good from the tournament just closed, aside from the pleasure of playing the game. Each member of the Tiger team, whose names are in the above line-up, together with Walter Scott, the substitute, will be presented a sweater in the near future, as an emblem of the winners of the tournament.

ONE MILLION DOLLARS FOR A GOOD STOMACH.

This Offer Should Be a Warning to Every Man and Woman.

The newspapers and medical journals recently have had much to say relative to a famous millionaire's offer of a million dollars for a new stomach.

This great multi-millionaire was too busy to worry about the condition of his stomach. He allowed his dyspepsia to run from bad to worse until in the end it became incurable.

His misfortune serves as a warning to others.

Every one who suffers with dyspepsia for a few years will give everything he owns for a new stomach.

Dyspepsia is commonly caused by an abnormal state of the gastric juices, or by lack of tone in the walls of the stomach. The result is that the stomach loses its power to digest food.

We are now able to supply certain missing elements—to help to restore to the gastric juices their digestive power, and to aid in making the stomach strong and well.

We know that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are a most dependable remedy for disordered stomachs, indigestion, and dyspepsia.

We want you to try them and will return your money if you are not more than satisfied with the result.

Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store. The Orear-Henry Drug Co., 113 North Main Street.

VICTIM OF TAR PARTY TESTIFIES

Told in Crowded Courtroom of Her Humiliating Experience.

SIMPLE BUT DRAMATIC STORY

Cross-Examination Fails to Alter Testimony—Many Could Not Gain Admission to Hear Trial.

Lincoln, Kan., Nov. 22.—This was Mary Chamberlain day in court in the tar party case. Facing three of the men accused of complicity in assaulting her on a country road north of Shady Bend on the night of August 7 and in a crowded room she told her terrifying experience.

Her story was dramatic for its simplicity. She gave a coherent narrative of the episode in a low, even voice. Not once did she entirely lose her self-control. Nor did she speak with any feeling against the defendants. Had she been telling of the experiences of some other person she could not have been calmer.

Throughout the time she was on the stand she addressed the jury, and every juror gave her story the closest attention. On cross-examination her story was unshaken.

Perhaps a hundred persons, men who could not find seats in the little circuit courtroom and boys who were barred because of their youth, vied with one another outside the doors for places near the entrance in the hope that they might catch a word of her testimony.

The girl's examination lasted about half an hour. The defense reserved the right to recall her later. With the completion of her testimony the state rested its case. The defense immediately began its examination of witnesses and ten had been questioned when adjournment was taken.

Her narrative set forth how Edward Ricord, a village barber, decoyed her out into the country on the pretense of going to a dance, his alleged insult and the subsequent pouring of tar on her body and limbs by one man while others rubbed it in with their hands; how by this experience she was rendered unconscious and later awoke to find herself being driven home by the companion who had deserted her, and how the tar clung to the body for days after the assault.

She said she failed to recognize any of her assailants.

Lodge Gave Supper After Work.

One candidate was initiated, and after the adjournment of the lodge an oyster supper was enjoyed by all present. The drill teams have been recently reorganized with Ellis G. Cook as drill master, and they are doing excellent work. There will be work for the next two meetings in the first degree.

Condition Still Critical.

REED ATTACKS SUPREME COURT

Facts Misstated, Says Special Prosecutor in Hyde Case.

LAWYERS AND JUDGE SURPRISED

Criticism of Highest Tribunal in State Created Sensation—Asks Porterfield to Admit Testimony Used at First Trial.

Kansas City, Nov. 22.—The opinion of the supreme court of Missouri was attacked when J. A. Reed, special prosecutor, criticizing bitterly the judges and the opinion of the court in the Hyde case, asked Judge Porterfield to ignore the opinion of the court and admit practically all the testimony against Dr. Hyde given at the first trial except that of the typhoid epidemic.

"When courts write such opinions as this," he declared, "it opens the doors of jails and penitentiaries."

The attacks on the supreme court came as a complete surprise to the court and the defense.

"We have come to the parting of the ways," Reed declared heatedly in opening his argument. "The defendant here will be tried on one theory or the other. There can be no compromise. The state is either entitled to show all the various acts and crimes purported to have been committed by this defendant, prompted by the single and continuous motive—avarice—or else the case is limited absolutely to the Thomas H. Swope case. It begins there and it ends there."

"I don't bow my head in reverence to a mere dictum as long as the court had not read the record. I can prove it." He paused a moment. Lawyers in the courtroom—there were many as spectators—looked at the special prosecutor in amazement.

Reed attacked the supreme court for citing medical authorities in its decision.

"This is nothing but hearsay evidence," he declared. "Hearsay evidence was barred at the former trial here and it should have been barred in the supreme court."

"Going into the teeth of the record and the defendant's own evidence," is what Reed called the court's action in following a medical authority outside the case.

Reed read from the record to show the court stated its conclusions wrongly in saying there was nothing to show that Dr. Hyde knew of the contents of the Swope will. The record did show that Hyde knew what was in the will, Reed contended, and quoted from Hyde's testimony to prove it.

"I am talking plain," the prosecutor said, "but I mean it in no disrespect to the court. I am dealing with a most remarkable document. Insofar as it sets forth the law, I expect your honor to follow it. But where it deliberately misstates facts no one can expect you to follow it. That's not law; that's not common law; statute law."

Reed continued his dissecting of the supreme court opinion as the state's attorney saw it, taking it up clause by clause, point by point. The Hyde lawyers sat silent throughout the performance while Judge Porterfield, his face a study alternated his eyes from the supreme court opinion he held in his hand to the face of the prosecutor as he went deeper and deeper into his attack.

Special Prosecutor Reed pleaded exhaustion at 4:50 p. m., after he had carried the state's case past the crucial point and won the admission of the alleged poisoning of Chrisman Swope as evidence against Dr. B. Clark Hyde.

Richmond, Mo., Nov. 22.—A huge block of Barre granite, weighing 18 tons, a monument to the three men who witnessed the translation of the Book of Mormon, will be unveiled in the old Richmond Cemetery in the presence of more than 500 members of the Utah church, by which it was erected. The three witnesses were Oliver Cowdery, David Whitmer and Martin Harris. Cowdery and Whitmer died here and are buried in the old cemetery. Harris died in Salt Lake City and is buried there.

Thieves Took Only Plumes.

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 22.—Thieves raided the Martin-McCormick company's wholesale millinery house here and stole $4,000 worth of plumes. The thieves went through the entire stock and selected the costly plumes. A night watchman fired six shots at the robbers as they were leaving, but failed to hit them.

DOLLEY ADDRESSES BANKERS

OPPOSES ALDRICH CURRENCY REFORM PLAN.

Will Endorse No Plan Which Does Not Give all Banks Equal Advantages.

New Orleans, Nov. 22.—Addressing the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks at its convention here, J. N. Dolley, bank commissioner of Kansas, voiced some objections to the plan for a national reserve association as outlined by former Senator Nelson D. Aldrich. His principal argument against the plan is that it does not provide for participation by the thousands of state banks with less than $25,000 in capital. In Kansas 657 out of the 889 state banks have less than $25,000 in capital.

Mr. Dolley believes that the banks, and not the president of the United States, should appoint the governor and deputy governors of the institution. He thinks the government should have no representation on the board of directors, though he favors a board of supervisors to be composed of the secretary of the treasury, the comptroller of the currency and two state bank commissioners. He believes the dividends on the stock of the National Reserve association should not be limited to 5 per cent per annum, and that not any of the profits should go to the United States government.

He declared that all directors should be elected by vote of individual banks without regard to the amount of their capital, and that the head of office should be in Chicago instead of Washington.

"No plan to reform the currency will have our consent until we are fully satisfied that every bank in every community, and every citizen of Kansas will have equal rights, privileges and advantages under the system with every other bank, community and citizen of the United States," said Mr. Dolley.

United States Commissioner of Labor Has Two Investigators Busy in Kansas.

Topeka, Nov. 22.—Charles P. Neill, United States commissioner of labor, has returned to Washington after having mapped out for two assistants an investigation in Kansas into high cost of living and the causes that have brought it about.

The commissioner, in answer to questions, said he was unable to say just what would be done with the information collected in Kansas. He stated, however, that the investigation of conditions would be thorough.

"In a few years," Mr. Neill added, "the fertility of the soil will be a larger question in this state than it now is. The farmers will bend their efforts to increase the crop yield rather than to increase the acreage."
